

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) In Rhode Island

2013

What is SSI?

SSI, or Supplemental Security Income, is a federal program that provides monthly cash payments to people in need. SSI is for people who are 65 or older, as well as for blind or disabled people of any age, including children.

To qualify you also must have little or no income and few resources. This means that the value of the things you own must be less than $2,000 if you are single or less than $3,000 if you are married. The value of your home does not count if you live in it. Usually, the value of your car does not count. And the value of certain other resources, such as a burial plot, may not count either.

To receive SSI, you also must apply for any other cash benefits you may be able to get.

You must live in the United States or Northern Mariana Islands to receive SSI. If you are not a U.S. citizen, but you are lawfully residing in the United States, you still may be able to receive SSI. For more information, ask for a copy of Supplemental Security Income (SSI) For Noncitizens (Publication No. 05-11051).

The state of Rhode Island adds money to the federal payment. Social Security issues a single payment to those living in residential care or assisted living facilities; the payment includes both the federal SSI payment and the supplement from Rhode Island.

If you live independently, in someone else's household, or in a Medicaid facility, you receive a separate payment from Rhode Island.

Medical assistance

If you receive SSI, you usually can get medical assistance (Medicaid) automatically. If you have questions about Medicaid, contact your local Department of Human Services office.

Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP)

If you receive SSI, you may be able to get help through the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), formerly known as food stamps. SNAP can help you buy more food without spending more money. However, Social Security does not decide if you qualify for SNAP. If you live in a household where everyone is applying for or getting SSI, you can apply for SNAP at a Social Security office. If not, you must apply at your local Department of Human Services office.

Other social services

Other services you may be able to get through your local Department of Human Services include:

- Information, referral and follow-up;
- Homemaker and chore services;
- Community placement services; and
- Rehabilitation services.

For more information, contact your local Department of Human Services office.

Monthly SSI payment amounts

These amounts include both federal and state payments combined. Not all SSI recipients receive the maximum amounts. Your payment may be lower if you have other income.

Category	2013 total monthly payments
Independent living status
Eligible person	$710.00
Eligible couple	$1,066.00
Individual living in someone else's household
Eligible person	$473.34
Eligible couple	$710.67
Living in a licensed residential care and assisted living facility
Eligible person	$1,042.00
Living in a Medicaid facility
Eligible person	$30.00
Eligible couple	$60.00

Contacting Social Security

For more information and to find copies of our publications, visit our website at www.socialsecurity.gov or call toll-free, 1-800-772-1213 (for the deaf or hard of hearing, call our TTY number, 1-800-325-0778). We treat all calls confidentially. We can answer specific questions from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday. Generally, you'll have a shorter wait time if you call during the week after Tuesday. We can provide information by automated phone service 24 hours a day.

We also want to make sure you receive accurate and courteous service. That is why we have a second Social Security representative monitor some telephone calls.